

Valley Items To PlanCom

A light sprinkling of applications from Carmel Valley will be considered by the County Planning Commission at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, July 28, in the Supervisors' Chambers at the courthouse in Salinas.

Paul Porter has applied for a use permit on four panhandle lots immediately adjacent to his Rancho Tierra Grande subdivision (2:45 p.m.).

Renewal of an expired permit for two panhandle lots is sought (3:15 p.m.) by George Engstrom whose property is in the James meadows tract.

A hearing date will be set for an application by Jack Rauber to build a 30-unit subdivision called "Los Tulares" in the Camp Stefani vicinity. A cluster-plus-open-space design with individually owned lots is planned.

CARMEL UNINCORPORATED Use permits, variances, and zoning changes in the unincorporated areas around Carmel also fall under the jurisdiction of the County Planning Commission.

A long-delayed plan of the Carmel Land Company for a subdivision between Carmel Hills and Aguajito will be presented (10:20 a.m.) with an application for Special Treatment zoning, to enable clustering of houses and preservation of trees. (See page 8).

Aircraft Group Invites Young People

Young people 14 years of age or older, both boys and girls, are invited to join the new Experimental Aircraft Association, Chapter 208, recently formed in Carmel Valley.

"We are now officially set up and in business, and our principal objective is in developing and channeling the energies of our young people in a constructive manner," Al Norman, president of the group, told the Outlook this week.

"I most earnestly urge the young fellows and girls who may be interested in flying to join in the EAA and to open a new door of interest," he continued. "The advantages of our club are many. Learning how to fly is easy, for anyone, but if you build your own plane and learn how to fly in conjunction with the construction, you will be a much better pilot for it.

"Up to the present time there has been a lot of work put forth to form this group and we would now like to see the young people take advantage of it.

"Please do not hesitate to call me at my home, 659-4156."

Experienced Newspaperman Purchases Interest In Carmel Valley Outlook

William J. Norton is purchasing an interest in the Carmel Valley Outlook, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Branch, publisher and editor for the past 2 1/2 years, announced this week. Mrs. Branch, who continues as editor, said Norton will assume the duties of publisher, and will install a printing plant in Carmel Valley within the next two months, to print the paper and job work here.

Norton has been president for 11 years of Foothill Printing and Publishing, Inc., publisher of the Los Altos Town Crier and the Cupertino Courier. The firm, in which he continues his interest, grew more than seven-fold during that time and recently purchased a new roll-fed Goss offset press.

Betty Branch said she feels Norton's extensive experience in printing and publishing would be invaluable to the continued development of the Outlook.

"We have reached the point where we need our own print shop -- and I believe the community needs a print shop, too. Bill Norton is bringing a press, know-how, and added capital -- all the necessary ingredients."

Mr. and Mrs. Branch themselves reside in Los Altos for nearly a decade, and, says Russell Branch, "We have therefore long been acquainted with Bill Norton's fine reputation in the publishing field, and we feel that he will be a real addition to the community as well as the Outlook."

Except for a brief period, Mr. Branch has not participated actively as publisher of the Outlook, since for more than five years he has been fully employed at the Fort Ord research office of Stanford Research Institute, where he heads their editorial services department.

Norton had many compliments for "the remarkable job that Betty Branch has accomplished to make the Outlook a true community-served newspaper for both subscribers and advertisers."

"Perhaps some of you are too close to home to realize that the Outlook is one of the top weeklies in the state but it's true," he commented. "With Betty in the editor's chair, it will stay that way as we continue to grow."

Norton is originally from Michigan, although he graduated from Bowdoin College in Maine. He came West after army service during the war and published The Lassen Advocate, a twice-weekly paper in Susanville, northeastern California, before moving to Los Altos. He has been president of the Chamber of Commerce. Norton and his wife have three children, 12, 16 and 18.

TWO YOUNG SUMMER visitors to Carmel Valley delighted the patients at Community Hospital last week when they gave an impromptu concert of singing with guitar accompaniment. Dian Wright and Pat Lohrberg are guests of Dian's grandfather, Walter V. Patton of Carmel Valley.

While visiting a sick friend at Community Hospital, they decided that a little musical therapy might be beneficial. By the time the two girls had finished two numbers for their friend, they had gathered a large audience and were persuaded to move their concert to the South Garden Court. Their rendition of folk songs soon had the court filled with patients, nurses, doctors and visitors to the hospital.

Before coming to the Valley, Pat and Dian entered a music contest at San Luis Obispo County Fair and were named one of the 10 finalists. They will compete in the playoffs on August 23.

The response to the young ladies musical therapy was such a success that they have been invited to come back from time to time.

Responses To Alcan Poll

Altogether more than 50 residents wrote to the Outlook opposing the plan. Including the letter from the inimitable Ed Hogan, only 4 replies favored the project.

(We have printed all the replies which favored the project.)

"If Alcan doesn't go in, the hills will be scarred by roads for one resident per acre. It would be better if Alcan would reduce to about 275 units. Tax base will be raised. We don't need that area for a park."--Gen. J. H. Phillips, Rt. 3, Box 291.

"I favor development of the Valley. I don't believe in the selfish philosophy of keeping people out. This is a unique area and should be shared...."--Mrs. Edna R. Collins, Country Club Dr.

"When one drives along CV Road and sees some of the atrocities existing... one wishes that the "Hacienda Retirement Area" could have been built closer to the road to be seen and admired...by all those who enter the Valley for the first time or...who travel our lovely CV Rd. regularly...."--Evelyn M. Lundin, 389 W. C. V. Rd.

Con

"We have seen what happened in West Los Angeles and Beverly Hills when one tall building went up. All the rest were allowed to follow. The same will happen here with one exception--anyone else will be allowed to follow." A. W. Brussell, 209 Loring Ave. L. A. 24 (owns property in Rancho Canada).

"Alcan has not demonstrated in this Hacienda project the ability to plan and build an imaginative, creative design, suited to the terrain of the Valley. In my opinion the Hacienda is an eyesore of crowded roofs.... I also signed a petition and believe that the other signers as myself knew what they were signing--many have carefully studied all aspects."--Ann Hurd, Country Club Drive.

...We settled in Carmel Valley... believing that the Master Plan having been approved by the County, would maintain its rural character. Cluster housing is contrary to the Master Plan and in our opinion would largely nullify its effect...

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hansen

"The Board of Supervisors should reject the Alcan application and inaugurate necessary action to allow no credit for land with a 50% grade and very little credit for 40% grade."--Col. Anders Larson, Ret., 81 Robles del Rio.

"I think that the one acre minimum per house should prevail. Charles A. Wall, Rt. 2, Carmel

WISE SAYS HILLSIDE ORDINANCE FEASIBLE

Larry Wise of Hahn, Wise Associates, consultant to the County Planning Commission on a gradient-density formula, told the Outlook this week that he is sure such a principle can be worked out, but it will take time.

"If possible," he said, "we would like to propose a set of rules that can be applied all over the county, down the coast as well as in Carmel Valley. This is not absolutely necessary, as we could write a special district into the ordinance, but we would rather avoid that if we can." He met last week with Planning Director DeMars and hopes that when DeMars returns from a vacation about a month from now, they will have a concrete formulation to discuss.

The usual way to test a relationship of this kind is to apply it to a model of an actual piece of terrain; if it produces too large a percentage of unusable land, the planners try another formula, Wise explained.

"We have to be fair to both sides," he said, "recognizing that there are things to preserve but at the same time not neglecting the interests of the owners."

Letters to the Editor

... and some Long winded Replies

Dear Mrs. Branch,
I have long been interested in Carmel Valley, and recurrently disturbed by periodic changes in the zoning that seem to accommodate special interests. The Alcan Pacific proposal is a case in point...

I have heard that Commissioner Willard Branson has a great deal to gain if the Alcan application for rezoning is approved. Branson's wife and her family have a substantial interest--so the rumor goes--in a large parcel of land contiguous to the Alcan site. Should this request be granted, this contiguous parcel would greatly increase in value in the eyes of any potential buyer.

Commissioner Branson has been the most vigorous and outspoken commissioner on the side of Alcan. He himself made a motion to approve the zoning change. Either he should admit a conflict of interest, in which case he should resign before the sun sets; or there should be an unequivocal denial, which would clear the air.

Public officials are charged with heavy responsibilities to the people they serve, who have the right, or mandate, to look into their conduct.

I look forward to residing in this Valley and want to find a clear political atmosphere.

(Mrs.) Emmy Lou Miller
415 Oxford Avenue
Palo Alto, California

EDITOR'S REPLY:

Some of Mrs. Miller's statements are facts; others are implications. Commissioner Branson and his wife's mother, Mrs. Mary Hatton, both confirm the fact that Mrs. Hatton owns and lives on a large tract of land immediately adjacent to the Alcan property. It is also a matter of record that Branson did initiate a motion in the Planning Commission meeting to approve the Alcan project. The motion was defeated by a tie vote.

On the question of conflict of interest, which is an implication, County Counsel Stoffers told the Outlook that his staff had discussed the matter thoroughly and

700 Sign Petition For Delay Until November Vote On Park

About 700 people have signed a petition asking that the Alcan application be delayed until after the November elections so that bond and public park issues can first be clarified. The petition was circulated by a group of Carmel Valley women headed by Mrs. John Sigourney. It also asks strict adherence to the Carmel Valley Master Plan that "...building sites are to be generally one acre or greater and...no apartment buildings...as set forth in said master plan."

Last week, Beverly Stover made a statement to the Monterey Herald in which he reported that he had conducted a poll of approximately 40 people and found that virtually none of them favors a park.

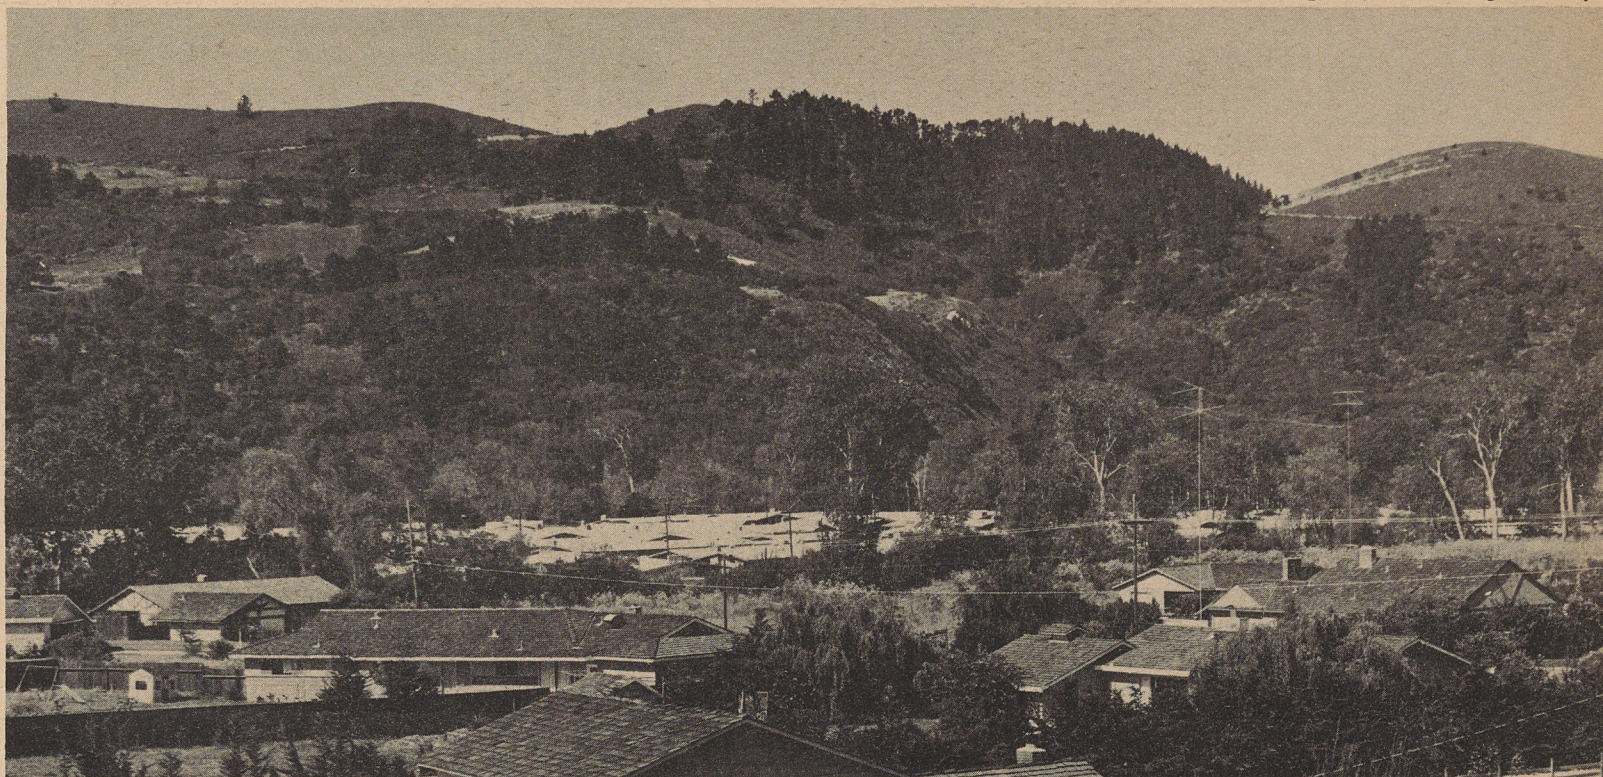

STATEMENT FROM CVPOA PRESIDENT:

"Rezoning is a privilege, not a right," George Brown, president of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association told the Outlook in response to a request for a last-ditch message to residents before the Board of Supervisors hearing next Tuesday.

"It is not incumbent upon the County, representing the people, to grant rezoning merely because it is asked for, whether by an individual or a corporation," Brown continued.

"The planners had little compunction in rejecting proposals of Pacific Gas & Electric Company and of Richfield Corporation. Why is there such difficulty in having the County reject the proposal of a corporation which has made less of a contribution, probably, than either of the others just named?"

"We hope that anyone who has an interest in preserving the character of Carmel Valley will make their presence felt at the Board of Supervisors meeting Monday.

"with the facts as we know them, we see no conflict whatever." He pointed out that legally, even if the property were in his wife's name, there was no presumption of any benefits accruing to Branson; still less with property owned by his mother-in-law.

Commissioner Branson himself told the Outlook that he had "absolutely no reason" for his actions other than his firm conviction that the application as presented by Alcan was a good use for the land. He pointed out that there were three other commissioners of the same opinion as he. "If I had had ulterior motives in wishing the rezoning approved, it would have been naive to make the motion myself," he said.

Mrs. Hatton's statement appears elsewhere on page 5.

Alcan Proposal

Editor:

Like a voice crying in the wilderness, I have some comments from the obvious minority regarding Alcan Pacific's Del Mesa Carmel. First: I have no connection, interest or particular brief with Alcan. I am alarmed, however, by what is becoming a "cause celebre" by the "Army" (and "Navy") of representatives of the many property owners as sociations.

I am a subdivider, and I strongly object to the inferences, statements and snide cartoons ($ signs for eyes! Now really!) that all subdividers are greedy and selfish.... The further inference that to make a profit is ulterior, wrong or morally objectionable is indeed a sad commentary on our times....

What about the matter of "Rights"... the right to the highest and best use of one's property! Zoning is promulgated on the basis of the general health, welfare, safety and morals of the public. Aesthetics has of late been a factor, but I would not bet that a judge would find the Alcan proposal detrimental to health, welfare, safety, morals--OR objectionable aesthetically.

Apropos the ridiculous "vote" run in the Outlook re: Alcan, let us presuppose a "vote" on the question: "Shall we allow ANY further building in Carmel Valley?"

Would the majority vote for the growth that we will continue to have? Or would they vote selfishly and greedily to make parks and scenic easements and in effect "take" SOMEONE ELSE'S property? Do the people of Carmel Valley seriously feel that because they don't want the view spoiled or the rural atmosphere changed or the "total population" above a certain figure, that this is a good and valid reason to suddenly, by the stroke of the pen of the zoning board, materially reduce the value of a great deal of land? This is NOT selfish?...

Let me suggest that the leaders of the opposition do something CONSTRUCTIVE, and not wait until a particular issue comes up. Read your own Master Plan. I quote: "...this plan...should be periodically reviewed if it is to be tolerant of changing conditions, ideas and future developments." That the "future" has already arrived points up that the Master Plan population projections were much too low, as has been the case in almost every community in America.

Let me close by quoting Justice Holmes: "The general rule, at least, is that while property rights may be regulated to a certain extent, if regulation goes too far it will be recognized as a taking." The people of Carmel Valley can not be allowed to "take" Alcan's property rights, or the right of any property owner to use, sell, subdivide, develop or whatever, to its most profitable and best use, in conformity to reasonable zoning.

Edward F. Hogan
Hidden Hills Ranch

(Ed. Note: Hogan, you old hot-head, we will admit to having deleted the more incendiary parts of your letter!

As you well know, we consider your own subdivision, Hidden Hills, a superlative job of planning for an unusually steep terrain. So why did you yourself choose to limit its density to one residence per 2-1/2 acres? No doubt because you felt this was the "highest and best use" for steep terrain in this region!

We can agree that the basic issue is as you point out: the extent to which a community has the right to determine its own character without doing violence to individual rights.

Apparently we differ only regarding the extent. We think the majority has the right to legislate for the protection of the community as a whole. We have seen a great deal of the state of California ruined because enough steps were not taken in this direction sooner.

We can also agree on your constructive suggestion which actually seconds one the Outlook made in an editorial on April 15, 1964, to the effect that the time has come to re-examine our Master Plan if--in the light of new concepts, building methods, etc.--it is to continue to serve us adequately.--BB)

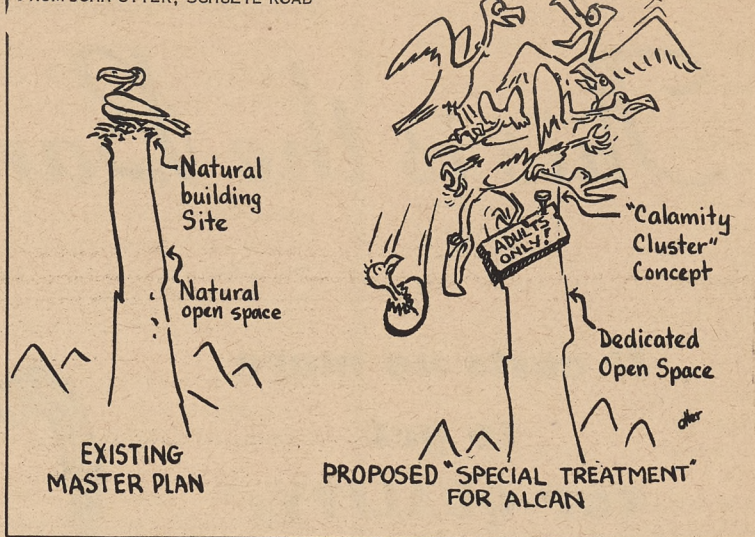

Praise for Youngsters

The Editor:

Mrs. Short and I recently had the pleasure of assisting in the Vacation Bible School held by the Episcopal and the Community Churches. There were over eighty children in attendance. When we mentioned this number to a prominent business man in the Village, he said, "You're in for trouble. It's impossible to get that many children together without trouble." Nothing we could say could convince him otherwise."

But now that the V.B.S. is over, we can only say that these children were never a problem. They were uniformly cooperative, obedient, and responsive. They were also unusually intelligent. We are inclined to attribute this to the fact that they have been brought up on the Bible.

CARTOON-TO-THE-EDITOR
FROM JOHN OTTER, SCHULTE ROAD

Certainly parents, classrooms and Sunday School teachers must be doing a good job in training these young people. They are not the ones who make the headlines, but they are the salt of the earth in the community. Activities such as the Vacation Bible School which inculcate right principles are the outstanding answer to our juvenile problem.

Advertising Deluge

Dear Mrs. Branch:

"Letters to the Editor" in the Outlook from the Valley folks have covered practically every subject from dogs that stray to teenager troubles -- and condominiums and parks to superhighways. So my concern is a small one, but it keeps us wondering: why are we here in the Valley so swamped with junk mail?

Are we, here, a special target for high pressure advertising? From all points we are deluged with colorful pages -- to sell us ... roofs for our homes (our roof doesn't leak), feeders for our pigs (we have no pigs), and insurance for everything from age one to 100 years (we have friends and neighbors who sell us all kinds of insurance -- and they know our names!)

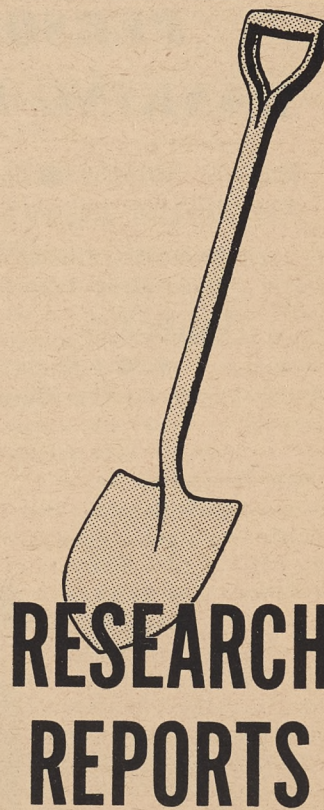

And you -- at the Outlook -- know our names. You record our comings and goings, our joys and sorrows. You tell us about our neighbors -- what they are thinking and doing. When Valley people are honored, you are happy and tell us about it.

And to us, your advertising carries a guaranty. You know the business people here, you like them -- so we like them too -- and know them to be everything that you say for them.

So we do not need such an edition of advertising that is so cleverly distributed with the Outlook in the same mail! And why do some of our merchants patronize it? Until you disowned it, we feared that our newsy, reliable little Outlook had deteriorated into a gigantic advertising mess! We apologize for doubting you even for a moment and want you to know that this shopping paper goes right into the big wastebasket along with all the other unwanted stuffing from our mailbox.

Mary Wolfe

(Ed. Reply: Thanks so much. Many of our readers let us know in many ways how much they like the Outlook. But we fear that few realize, as you do, how a shopping circular competes for advertising without the responsibility of maintaining an editorial department. If more of our readers told advertisers that they prefer to read their ads in the community newspaper, it would be a big help. Thanks again. --BB)

EDITORIAL SUMMARY:

For weeks we have dealt in both news and editorial columns with the request of Alcan Pacific Corporation that 300+ acres in the lower Valley be rezoned to allow clustering of 300+ dwelling units on 40+ acres of mesa atop its steep slopes.

Headquartered in Sacramento and known locally as developers of Hacienda Carmel Retirement Community, Alcan has optioned the parcel recently purchased by a Carmel real estate agent. Plancom continued the hearing once, deadlocked on the second round with a tie vote that sent the question to the Board of Supervisors -- next Monday at 10:00 A.M.

We believe that the vast majority of Valley residents are most reluctant to allow this precedent which would greatly influence the course of future development here. We will try once again to summarize, although the issues are sufficiently complex that oversimplification will be unavoidable: REZONING ASKED

Were the Alcan project entirely in keeping with the Carmel Valley Master Plan, no rezoning would be necessary.

Present zoning calls for single-family houses, each on an individually owned plot of land -- one acre or more. The Carmel Valley Master Plan assumed (in 1955, it seemed practicable to do so) that only 6% of the homes in Carmel Valley would be built on grades of 30-50% -- and that virtually no homes would be built on land steeper than 50% in grade. The projection is not enforceable; no ordinance exists to put teeth into it. The adherents of the Master Plan can only point hopefully to its "obvious intent" which even now could be followed, were the County to evolve a density formula related to steepness of slope.

FORMULA POSSIBLE

Despite the repeated assertions of Alcan representatives that such a formula cannot be computed, we have the example of the High Meadows subdivision (see Carmel section, page 8 this issue) where such a formula does indeed exist. Furthermore, Planner Lawrence Wise has been asked by the County to evolve a slope-density formula which would be applicable throughout the region. (His statement appears on page 2.)

Residents of Carmel Valley who feel that Alcan is asking too much have suggested many times that if the developers would cut down the proposed number of units, most of the starch would go out of the opposition. Alcan has not, however, shown any disposition to compromise in this regard.

Two more objections thrown at the proposal are: (1) the design of the community itself is essentially town-house rather than rural, and (2) while consideration must certainly be given to the traditional prerogatives of landowners, it hardly follows that the holder of a mere option can claim the

Alcan's own strongest argument seems to be that of the 300+ acres they have optioned, they offer a--they are offering more than 250 (even if these are extremely steep) as "free" greenbelt. The idea of a park which would turn the entire holding into greenbelt they set aside as too expensive in public money.

Echoing this last sentiment are a relatively few Valley residents who are disturbed by a recent boost in assessed valuation of real property and who would welcome such an extension of the tax base as Alcan's project would provide. In addition, they point out, an "adult community" such as Alcan proposes makes no demands on the school system or other public facilities.

RESULTS NOT IN

In answer, opponents of the proposal contend that both its planning principles -- the cluster development and the community restricted to adults -- are only now being tested in the Valley. (The Golf & Country Club is designed on the cluster principle; Hacienda Carmel and CV Manor are adult communities.) Only time will show whether these approaches are desirable in the long run, they aver, reminding the Planning Commission of its publicly stated intention to allow no more retirement communities in the Valley until the impact of the present ones could be assessed.

Understandably, Alcan has not stressed the financial savings to itself in putting all the buildings close together on the level mesa, but it is obvious that these must be substantial. The amount of pavement, pipes, utility lines, etc. necessary would naturally be much reduced.

PLENTY OF MARGIN

Yet Alcan has mentioned "another developer" waiting in the wings to dash out and criss-cross the plot with one-acre lot lines, bulldozing the trees, gashing numerous roads into the hills, draping utility wires all over the landscape, etc. If this could be presumed to be a profitable operation for "another developer," who is supposedly not in business to lose money either, Alcan surely has margin to ask for less without taking a loss!

DEMARS' LAST WORD

The critical word on the Alcan subject, in the opinion of this newspaper, was voiced by County Planning Director Ed DeMars in the June 23 Plancom meeting:

"The burden of a rezoning application is on the applicant. Can he convince the people in the community that the proposal he makes is equal to or better than what they would have had under present zoning? Alcan has not been able to do this with the people of Carmel Valley. With no change in this direction, it would seem to me that the existing zoning should stand..."

MRS. HATTON SAYS

Mrs. Mary Hatton, owner of a tract immediately west of the Alcan property and of approximately the same size, gave the Outlook the following statement:

"I would be the Alcan project's nearest neighbor," she said, "and when I first heard of it my spirits sank, but now that I have seen their beautiful plans and know what kind of people will live there, I can't think of anything lovelier to go on that land."

She considers the area unsuitable for a park -- "It has very deep ravines and no water, and everyone would live in constant terror of fire."

For her own property, Mrs. Hatton has no immediate plans of any kind. "My husband's family paid taxes on this land for 75 years," she observed, "and I feel a very strong sense of obligation to them and to the Valley which they loved. I wish it could remain just as it is for ever and ever, but I do feel the right thing will come along eventually, both for my grandchildren and for the Valley. I have had offer after offer to develop or subdivide and have turned a deaf ear to all of them because they didn't seem right for the Valley."

Formal graduation exercises following a training course for the local canine contingent were held recently at Tularcitos School. Trainer Lisa Buchenroth (yes, also the folksinger) had high praise for the progress of both dogs and owners.

"They've been an excellent group of handlers," she beamed, "and have proven it by their results." New classes will be starting immediately and are free for junior handlers aged 13 and under. For information, call Lisa at 659-4051.

For the classes just completed, Jacklyn Boyd of Panetta Road, an AKC judge licensed for Poodles and Obedience, acted as judge. Said Lisa, "Such a gracious and qualified judge! The pupils were certainly grateful for her ability to put them at ease before they stepped into the ring."

▲ The well-behaved line-up above included Mrs. James Caldwell and "Mickey," an airedale terrier; Diane Hawkins and "Hobo," a cocker spaniel; Mai Stephenson and "Lori," a German shorthair; Sharon Weiss and "Countess," a German Shepherd; Lee Cunningham and "Willie," a German shepherd, Kit Hawkins and "Murphy," a cocker spaniel; Buffie Collins and "Jody," a sheep dog. (But the line disintegrated amidst sundry yaps almost the moment after the photo was snapped, 'tis reported.)

▲ Jacklyn Boyd, who judged the ceremonies, awarded first place to Buffie Collins, wife of Carmel Valley's new Fire Chief. ▲

▼ Twin girls with twin dogs are Diane Hawkins with "Hobo" and Kit Hawkins with "Murphy." Both dogs received trophies for their good work. ▼

Bach Festival A Sellout

The 27th annual Bach festival opened last weekend at Sunset School to completely filled houses, and the repeat concerts this weekend are also sold out, according to the Festival Office. Never-say-die optimists can try the box office at the school shortly before the beginning of each concert, however, for a few single tickets are usually returned. Seats are still available for chamber music recitals on Friday and Saturday at 11:00 a.m. in the Parish Hall of All Saints Episcopal Church. Tickets may be purchased at the Festival Office in the interior courtyard of Sunset Terrace at 7th and Mission Streets.

High Meadows Subdivision Finally Scheduled For PlanCom

A subdivision first contemplated in 1957 will finally receive a hearing before the Planning Commission next Tuesday, July 28, at 10:00 a.m. Designed by Hall & Goodhue of Cannery Row, the project once contained 416 houses, but the freeway's "take" has eliminated 71 of these, leaving 345 units on lots which vary from 10,000 square feet to a full acre in area, depending upon the slope of the land.

The area, situated between Agujito with its voluntary 5-acre minimum building sites and the smaller lots of Carmel Hills, was unzoned at the time the lot sizes were set. A pioneer in the cluster-open space concept with emphasis on tying the houses to the terrain, the subdivision design in 1961 was awarded Sunset Magazine's highest award for excellence, and has since been reproduced in Architectural Record and other architectural journals. It has also been cited by William H. White for its preservation of green areas.

Uncertainty concerning the specific route of the projected freeway has delayed realization of the plans, but now that the path of

PEBBLE BEACH

Under the Oaks and Among the Cactus

by Mildred Hattan.

Big Tony, Little Tony, and Littlest Tony under the Steliga roof on El Caminito have made for a wonderfully confusing week while Skip, his wife, and three month old son have been guests of his parents. They returned to San Diego this week where they will remain until October, when Tony Jr. leaves for five months of sea duty on the USS Rodgers, a Navy destroyer.

The Central Coast counties Fire Departments held their July meeting at the Trail and Saddle Club Grounds Wednesday evening hosted by the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department. One hundred and fifty guests attended the first such dinner ever to be held in the Valley. They enjoyed the barbecue, the scenery, and the weather so much that they all voted to return again on Saturday night! Guest speaker for the evening was Bob Gehri, Chief of the Monterey Air Facilities who gave valuable pointers to the fire fighters on dealing with plane crashes.

Bill Thockey, a spry 71 year old who has recently retired after 33 years with the Salinas Fire Department, was honored by the Valley Firemen who presented a cake decorated with an early horse drawn fire engine.

Surprise guest was Erwin Horst, captain with the Los Angeles Fire Department who was driving down the Carmel Valley Road and followed the signs that read "Firemen" right to the barbecue site!

Folk singing by Lisa provided entertainment for the successful evening under the chairmanship of George Palmer and his social committee.

Dr. and Mrs. John S. Kelley of New Hartford, New York have been guests of their daughter and family, the Henry Blatnicks of Hitchcock Canyon. It was their first opportunity to meet their ten month old grandson, John Francis and to get reacquainted with their two year old grand daughter, Kelly Lynne. They arrived in the Valley after attending the American Medical Association Convention in San Francisco to which Dr. Kelley was a delegate from New York state. This was the second Valley visit for the Kelleys who were most impressed by the work done at Children's House during the tour given them by Ruth Ford.

Wives of the recently organized Valley chapter of the Lions' Club met Tuesday evening at Los Laureles Lodge to organize a Lions' Auxiliary. Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock, Mrs. William Hall, Mrs. Tony Steliga, and Mrs. Charles Gansel planned the dinner meeting that saw twenty six wives in attendance. Officers elected for the new organization are: Mrs. Clyde Hitchcock, president; Mrs. William Hall, vice president; Mrs. Clyde Yeisly, secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Todd, treasurer; Mrs. Tony Steliga, tail twister. Board of directors will include Mrs. George Baker, Mrs. William Stowers, Mrs. Charles Gansel, and Mrs. Kenneth Yaeger.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Dolores Galyen of the Marina Flower Shop who discussed and illustrated the art of flower arranging and corsage making. Mrs. William Penpraze was the lucky winner of the door prize, one of Mrs. Galyen's handsome arrangements. Mrs. Clyde Yeisly and Mrs. Tony Steliga were complimented for their attractive table arrangements for the initial meeting of the Carmel Valley Lions Auxiliary.

FIRE AND FIRST AID

Members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department were called to the J.S. Wood residence on Garzas Road at 4:05 p.m. July 11 to check a leaky butane tank.

Walter Bashline of the Cachuga was treated for shock and transported to the Community Hospital as a medical emergency July 14 at 1:58 p.m. by members of the Carmel Valley Volunteer First Aid crew.

HONOR CV ATTORNEY

Attorney James Nielsen has been named Lecturer in Jurisprudence at the Medical Center of the University of California, and will travel to the San Francisco campus weekly hereafter--to lecture, of course. Nielsen lives on Carmel Valley Rd. with his wife and two children.

BOOK REVIEWER IN CV

Renting the Bellemans home on Ford Road this summer are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence T. Williams. Mr. Williams is retired; his wife is Ragnhild C. Williams who reviews books for the San Francisco Examiner as well as the New York Herald-Tribune.

Mrs. Williams' specialty is children's books and she has promised to review some very special ones for the Outlook this summer.

A true cosmopolite, Mrs. Williams speaks 9 languages, and as a girl attended school in as many different nations since her father was a French consul. (Her maiden name is Chevalier). She took her B.A. and M.A. degrees both at Stanford.

The Williamses live in Piedmont where they say the weather has been rather miserable; they decided to spend the summer in Carmel Valley because the doctors told Mrs. Williams, who is recovering from a bout with rheumatic fever, to seek more sunshine.

Nowadays cleanliness costs you less because your PG&E rates have gone down

Nearly everything has gone up in price these days . . . except your PG&E rates. They have gone down lately. As a matter of fact, the typical PG&E household customer pays less today than 30 years ago for the same amount of gas and electricity. But count the things around your home that gas and electricity are doing for you and your family today. You are using three times as much as families did 30 years ago. So, though the unit price is lower, your bill is bigger. Any way you look at it, you live better for less because PG&E service is a bigger bargain than ever.

New Service For Homeowners, Contractors In CV

Four mechanical contractors in Carmel Valley will henceforth be coordinating their efforts, builder Mel Mark announced this week, to provide speedy service -- with emphasis on emergencies -- to general contractors as well as homeowners in Carmel Valley. All four services will be housed in the same building (at the corner of Village Dr. and Center St. in CV Village.)

Mark recently purchased Carmel Valley Plumbing Co. from Eric Scarlett, and is joining with Bill Conlan of Conlan Electric, Dick Crane of Carmel Valley Heating and Mike Ricketts of Peninsula Septic Tanks to provide a single office through which service in any of these specialties may be provided.

Mark said that Harold Hochberger will continue to do the plumbing work, "but the difference will be that with our new office set-up you have never seen such good service as you will get! I am going to lean on my reputation for speed and dependability as a building contractor when I say that," he concluded.

Miss Shirley Haley, a new Valley resident, will be answering the telephone for all four of the mechanical contractors.

Mrs. Fee Says 'Thank You'

Mrs. Robert Fee, widow of the late Mr. Fee who died in the Community Hospital last week, wishes to thank all her neighbors and friends whose thoughtfulness helped to lessen the sorrow of her bereavement.

She is especially grateful to the members of the Carmel Valley Ambulance crew who responded so promptly during emergencies over the last several years.

AAA SUGGESTS

When you're traveling downhill use the compression of your motor -- either second or low gear -- rather than riding the brakes. Keep a full radiator. Water boils more readily at high altitudes.

New Lt. Col. Kenneth J. Korver

Opens Friday

At White Oaks:

"The Three Penny Opera"

Opening Thursday, July 23rd at Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre, is the exciting dramatic musical, "The Three-Penny Opera". Written by Bertholt Brecht (adaptation of book and lyrics by Marc Blitzstein) with music by Kurt Weill, "The Three-Penny Opera" was first produced in Berlin in 1928. Although set in Soho, the slum area of London, "The Three-Penny Opera" is a bitter satire on the life and thoughts of Germany at that period.

An immediate hit throughout Europe where it was translated into Polish, Russian, Hungarian and French within five years, "The Three-Penny Opera" was not presented with success in the United States until 1954. And what success! Opening at the Theatre de Lys, it moved Brooks Atkinson, drama critic of the New York Times, to remark, "The brains, taste, and inventiveness of the musical theatre have moved off-Broadway this season. Broadway is left with a gaudy wardrobe of old hats." The show has been playing continuously since that time.

A word about the music: "The Three-Penny Opera" has been called "the weightiest possible lowbrow opera for highbrows and the most full-blooded highbrow musical for lowbrows." Weill, taking the profound emotions inherent in Brecht's text, created a score highly charged though simply expressed in functional harmony.

The members of the White Oaks resident company, under the direction of Eleanor Stoltz, will present "The Three-Penny Opera" Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday evenings through August 9th. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m., and contrary to the usual White Oaks summer offerings, parents are advised that "The Three-Penny Opera" is for adults only.

Young Violinist To Open New Concert Series

The summer concert season at Carmel Valley's White Oaks Theatre will get under way next Wednesday evening, July 29th, when Liz Matesky, young violinist from the University of Southern California School of Music, will play Sonatas by Bach, Beethoven, Brahms, and modern masters.

Miss Matesky, a student of Eudice Shapiro and a member of Heifetz' master class, has just returned from a tour of England and Wales where she recorded the Rondo Capriccioso for the British Broadcasting Corporation. This September, she returns to England to continue her violin studies at the Royal College of Music on a Fulbright scholarship.

Her accompanist for the evening is Neil Stannard, who is a student of John Crown. He has appeared as soloist in recital and with orchestra, both here and in Great Britain.

The concert series, which will include such young virtuosi as Carolyn Funk, cellist; Carol Plantamura, soprano; Michael Thomas, pianist, and a program of Chamber Music featuring Chris Nance, pianist, is part of a program of expansion at White Oaks.

"It is the Theatre's belief," says White Oaks producer Sally Church, "that a theatre should, like many European municipal theatres, be an institution of service, entertainment and artistic performance. Therefore, White Oaks is gradually adding performances of music, serious drama, the dance and opera to its seasons of comedies and musicals."

A highlight of the 1964 season will be the presentation of Menotti's "The Unicorn, Gorgon, and Manticore", a madrigal fable for chorus, dancers and nine instruments, with Stravinsky's "The Soldier's Tale."

Review

DARK OF THE MOON

How a semi-professional college workshop group, operating within the limits of a tiny theatre and with the simplest of effects could pack so much punch into one production remains a mystery. At any rate, we think they are to be roundly congratulated and that Peninsula audiences -- if these players continue the remarkable standard set by their first-night performance -- have a powerful evening in store.

"Dark of the Moon" by Howard Richardson and William Berney is the dramatization of the old Ballad of Barbara Allen. A "witch-boy" yearns to become a human for the love of a human lass -- but falls just short of his goal because she cannot remain faithful to him. The audience is offered every shade of experience from earthy, raucous humor and catchy, countrified music to an astonishingly effective build-up of tension as the inevitable and greatly moving tragic end draws near. The same spectators who were toe-tapping during the early part of the evening hung on the edge of their seats in utter silence as the climax approached.

If we have tended to favor one of the local Little Theatres over the others, we must admit it has been the Golden Bough Circle, for it does seem that their performances are consistently more professional than those of any other continuing Peninsula troupe. The Circle's summer affiliation with Fresno State College does not mar this record in the least.

Most earnest felicitations should probably go to the director -- Charles Randall -- since so many of the individual performers gave such a good account of themselves and because the pace was -- especially for a first night -- so smartly maintained throughout. The feeling of social pressure generated by the entire cast was almost a palpable thing. The passionate irrationality by which a group could convince one of its number to abandon deepest loyalties took on new meaning in the light of recent political events.

ANSEL ADAMS

From San Francisco, Lodi, Fresno, San Luis Obispo, they came. From all over the Peninsula they came. Even tourists from distant lands (in particular, one lovely old lady from India)... Over a thousand strong but what a fine group and, how fortunate they were! Appreciation of welcome afforded them at the homes of distinguished artists was apparent in their conduct and demeanor.

Aside from the beauty of the art on display, this was the most significant factor of the whole tour; the wonderful public. This is too rare an occurrence not to be noted.

Of course the spectators had reason to be accommodating, for they were treated like royalty. The ladies of the committee in charge and the sponsors are to be congratulated on a job well-done. The various hosts and hostesses were very charming and everyone was allowed to linger at any one of the eight houses to his heart's content.

Do we sound as if we were ducking an issue? What did we see? What did we like? Well, it would be unfair to single out individuals, or their works--this is not the type of showing in which to interject critiques. Being invited into the homes and studios of some of our foremost Peninsula artists was sincerely appreciated and a guest would not be so rude as to offer criticism. Suffice to say the tour was tremendous and it is easy to envision the day when the crowds might (and deserve to be) 10,000 strong.

The photography of Mr. Ansel Adams was especially delightful. Maybe the fact that his home is so spectacular formed the original impression of greatness somewhere about, but the pictures themselves actually invaded the heart.

Does everyone realize that a good photographer can be a fine artist? It's doubtful but true. Some of Mr. Adams' work is so exquisite as to suggest beautiful engravings or delicate woodcuts. He has the advantage over a painter in that copies of his work, being so readily available in many books and magazines, etc., are worthy as original creations, at a fraction of the cost.

Yes, the tour was a huge success and when the Fifth Annual Artist's Studio OpenHouse Tour rolls around next year, make it a point to go. The combination of good food, excellent hospitality, stimulating conversation and fine art is rarely bought for a mere three dollars.

Three Stops on the Tour: (top to bottom)

1) Ruth Buol, creates unique enamel-on-copper jewelry and accessories, available from the Kramer Shop in Carmel.

2) The Stuyvesant Fish Ranch offered delicious wild boat meat raised exclusively on the ranch and featured artistic flower arrangements by Virginia Nielsen.

3) Jessie Quigley, very talented Monterey Peninsula landscape and marine artist.

Swim Jamboree Friday

Carmel Valley's First Annual Swim Jamboree will be held this Friday at 10:00 a.m. with 150 Carmel Valley youngsters participating in relays, races and assorted "fun games". Pool manager Ken White is issuing a special invitation to parents and older friends to "turn out and see what our young people have been learning."

Besides diving and lifesaving exhibitions, there will be events featuring all grades of beginning, intermediate and advanced swimming classes. Ribbons will be awarded to first, second and third place winners. The "Snack Shack" will be open so that following the contests and games, families can lunch together outdoors and remain for recreational swimming during the afternoon, if they desire.

Among the highlights of the Jamboree will be the graduation of Carmel Valley's first junior lifesaving class. Receiving badges and certificates will be Patrick Read, Tom Cardiner, John O'Neal, James Johnson, Ted Todd, and Bob Kvenild, Jr. Each has been spending one afternoon per week as an assistant lifeguard.

The Jamboree is sponsored by the Recreation Department of the Carmel Unified School District. The department's second series of summer swim lessons will begin on Monday, July 27. Boys from 14 to 16 who wish to sign up for the second lifesaving class can call CUSD's recreation director, William Wakefield at 624-3342.

A "Baby Beginners" class for non-swimmers aged 4 to 6 informally announced last week is already "loaded" with more than two dozen young pupils, Pool Manager White reports.

THEY SENT OUR SWIMMERS

Mrs. Ariel Lane of Via Mallorca wishes to issue a special thank-you to friends and neighbors who organized a "Send Our Swimmers" campaign to aid in sending her daughters, Marilyn and Marcia, to Albany, New York to compete in the AAU championships.

"I never knew people could be so perfectly wonderful as everyone was to us," said Mrs. Lane "and it was two very thrilled young ladies indeed who went on that trip!" The girls traveled by a specially chartered and chaperoned plane with other contestants from various parts of this state.

A phone call from the girls last weekend told their parents they were "in 7th heaven." Since Roberta Armstrong, defending AAU champion in solo demonstration swimming, hails from Paso Robles, they are well-acquainted with her record. It seems that 7 years ago, when Miss Armstrong competed for the first time at the national level, she placed 89th, so Marilyn and Marcia felt they would be well satisfied during their first competing year if they did as well. Now it seems that -- out of more than 200 contestants -- Marilyn placed 15th in Solo swimming and Marcia 35th.

Night Lights At Community Pool

Night lights are being installed at the Carmel Valley Community Pool. If for any reason these are not shining during the night, Ken White, pool manager, requests that nearby residents notify the Sheriff's office. If anyone is noticed inside the pool enclosure or "fooling around" near the pool after 8:30 at night, White makes a similar request: notify the Sheriff's office.

White unhappily confirmed that there has been "a little vandalism" -- throwing rocks in the pool and that sort of thing" which makes these precautions seem desirable.

Take That Plunge!

BY SANDY AVIS

On July 13 the Community Pool finally got its high board. The pool has been open about a month, and now has both the low and high diving boards.

The board was put up at about 2:30 Monday afternoon, and some of the diving and swimming instructors went off first.

After they had gone off the board a few times, the patient waiters had their turn. Some people, such as Paula Bingham, had their first headfirst dive off a high board. And some very excellent divers such as John Crush and Lynn Campbell also went off.

The board is very good and springy, so you get a good bound! I'll see you at the pool!

John Livingstone Photography At Carmel Rancho

An unusual collection of photographs by Carmel lens artist John Livingstone, to be shown next month at the Chicago Art Institute is on display through July 27th in the Community Room of the Carmel Rancho Shopping Center. Some thirty photographic studies of the George R. Walker family depict two days in the life of a young boy, and have as their central figure the Walkers' nine year old son, Jeff. The series relates him through the days' activities to his parents and three sisters.

Other photographs in the Livingstone exhibit include a 1954 prize winning shot made in England, which won for the U. S. Army (Livingstone was then in the service) the top award in a worldwide Inter-Services Photo Competition. Subjects for the photograph were two aging lighthouse keepers in a British pub listening to coronation ceremonies for the queen. Another photograph is currently entered for publication in the British International Photography Annual, was made at a Big Sur hillside monastery.

John Livingstone is a native of Wisconsin and was graduated from its University. He first learned the fundamentals of photography during military service in Europe, and later went on to study at the Brooks Institute of Photography in Santa Barbara. He first came to the Monterey Peninsula in 1951 while assigned to the U. S. Army Language School, and returned in 1954 to establish a commercial photography business in Carmel. He lives at Trevis Way with his wife and three young daughters.

The Livingstone photography will be on view through Monday, July 27th, in the Carmel Rancho Community Room gallery (facing Security National Bank in the Center). Hours are 9 to 12 and 1 to 4:30 week days, and from 1 to 4:30 Saturday, July 25th. The gallery will close on Sunday, July 26th.

An exhibition of photography and sculpture by Alexander Weygers will follow, with August 3rd set as opening date for public view.

Music on the Peninsula
by Mary Lindsay-Oliver

Last week the Carmel Art Commission presented a group of symphonic players—including a number of members of the Monterey County Orchestra—to an enthusiastic full house at Carmel Forest Theatre. John Gosling conducted; there was also a visiting soloist from Minneapolis, Christopher Leuba, who has been attending the Symphony League workshop at Asilomar.

Mr. Leuba's french horn was a highlight of the program, intriguing with its warm and sympathetic tones in a Mozart concerto. The audience was loath to let him go! He is conductor of chamber groups in Minneapolis and played with much feeling and brilliancy. Another highlight was a concerto for piccolo played by Raymond Fabrizio, famous west coast flutist, who fills the first desk of the county orchestra and always stirs his public. Gosling, as at the Fairgrounds Pops, gave out interesting explanatory remarks on the music; with the orchestra, he received an ovation at the end.

For those unable to attend regular concerts, these free occasions are invaluable—and there is also the pleasure of sitting in beautiful surroundings. May there be another concert this summer with as good a choice of program! Besides the concertos, there was the Beethoven No. 1 Symphony and Riegger's Dance Rhythms.

Next week there will be reviews of the first half of the Carmel 27th annual Bach Festival which included an opening Bach and Mozart from the baroque era, recitals and concerts of works by Bach, Mozart, Vivaldi, Telemann, Haydn and the old English Purcell and Byrd; Handel, Montley and Monteverdi—besides a lecture by Raymond Kendall on "The Problems of Bach's Influence on Subsequent Generations." The latter is free to the public at All Saints Parish Hall.

Sandoz Salgo of Stanford University conducts all events, that include the Festival Chorus and Orchestra. Mrs. Salgo and the faithful Ralph Linsley have been preparing the chorus and orchestra for weeks, to be augmented by members who have performed in many previous Festivals here.

An Open Letter To A Coach

As an outsider I just want to tell you how much I was impressed with the caliber of the Little League of Carmel Valley, I arrived when the season was two-thirds over and the same day I applied I was fortunate to be playing for the Chevron Giants.

I just want to thank the umpires, Mr. Eckart and Tony; I want to thank the ladies who worked in the concession stand who sold us anything from bubble gum to hamburgers, the players on the Giants who accepted me on their team and most of all I want to thank Mr. Roger Sherman, our coach, who spent all of his time teaching us how to play baseball. He was patient with us and told us our mistakes. I think he is the best coach in the league.

Brian Carolan
Camp Steffani

(Sports Ed. Reply: Thank you very much, Brian, for your well written letter; I'm sure you mean every word. Each year Mrs. Branch has written an editorial pointing out the merits of Little League, but this year you have beaten her to it. I am sure the members of the other Little League teams feel the same way about their team members and coaches as you do. Congratulations on a fine letter and on your sincere sentiments. Thank you again.)

Big Week Honors For Horsemen

Carmel Valley Horsemen's Association received the award for the best-mounted group (other than the Sheriff's posse) last Saturday in the Big Week parade at Salinas; for the week in toto, they received 3rd place in the same classification. Captain of the local contingent was Mrs. Irene Piazoni. Flagbearers were Linda Azevedo, Darlene Sanchez, Carole Hogan, Fred Nason and Susan Archer. Others who rode with the group included Marjorie Ingram, Fred Bennett, Katie Harder, Beverly Archer, Dick Archer, Mrs. Moser, Beverly Moser, Adrienne Clark, Karen Rasmussen, Gary Rasmussen and Joyce Purrier.

Returning horsemen brought the news that Jackie Cagianut won 3rd place in the Ladies Stock-horse event at the Rodeo. If there were other Valley winners, these will be reported next week.

TOURNAMENT OFF SAYS BURDETT

A play-off will not be possible between the Little Leagues of Carmel and Carmel Valley this year, according to Les Burdett, CV Little League chairman. The Carmel team finished its season two weeks ago and too many of its players have left town to make a contest possible.

Calling it a "disappointing" end for the Valley boys, Burdett noted that lack of adult personnel to manage teams and umpire games had added to the time lag between the two communities.

The weather controls the start of the season because we can't start to play until the field is dry" he commented, "but it is most discouraging to have to call games because there is no one there to umpire.

He suggests that grown-ups who sign up to help with the teams next year plan to stay with the enterprise throughout the season.

Trail and Saddle Club Playday

The sixth award series Play Day will be held this coming Sunday July 26 at the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club grounds. Events will start at 10:30 a. m. and will begin with a safety inspection, then Halter class and Equitation (western or English). The snack bar will be open or barbecue facilities available for lunch at 12:00.

The show continues with Western pleasure, Hurry-scurry trail race, Washington Pole bending, Quadrangle stake race, Barrel race, and 2-man relay race. The second event, Halter class and the last event 2-man relay race are open. All other events are divided into two age groups of 12 and under and 13-18.

"We are fortunate in having George Duckworth as judge--but watch it kids, he is tough on the Safety Inspection! Check that rigging and cinch right now." This was the advice of Harry Z. Horse, Trail & Saddle Club spokesman, who also advises that the horse show will be but briefly interrupted by a general membership meeting of the club at 12:30 to discuss revisions in by-laws. "Not more than 30 minutes," Harry opines.

Heavy Deal, Junior, took his brother, Bryan Deal, on a fishing trip to Montana for two weeks.

CONNIE MACK LEAGUE

Monterey Wins Two

Inleague action over the week-end, Monterey's Tri-City beat Gilroy 9 to 3 and wholoped Santa Cruz 19 to 4.

In the first game, Monterey started off the second inning with a walk and four singles good for four runs. Gilroy came right back in the same inning with 1 run on a single and a double. Monterey scored once in the fourth and twice in the fifth. Gilroy's last tallies came in the eighth frame on a walk and 3 singles.

Dan Morgan belted out 2 hits and Joe Tringali scored 3 times. Bob Holmes pitched 7 innings, giving up 3 hits, walking 4, and striking out 13. Steve Johnson pitched well in relief.

Monterey won the league championship with a decisive win over Santa Cruz Saturday afternoon.

The game was a tight one until the third inning when Monterey scored 5 runs on 6 errors, a walk, a single, and a double. The fourth inning saw Monterey's sticks getting hot as they belted out 5 hits and 5 runs. Tri-City ran away with the game in the fifth inning when they scored 7 runs on 5 hits. Two more runs in the ninth inning gave Monterey a total of nineteen. Santa Cruz scored their only tallies in the seventh frame when they pushed across 4 runs on one walk and 3 hits.

Big guns for Monterey were Ralph Juarez with 3 hits, and Dan Morgan, Joe Tringali, and Bob Roberts each collecting 2 safeties. Roberts pitched superb ball as he walked 6, gave up 4 hits and struck out 9 in 7 innings of duty before giving way to the relief pitching of Steve Johnson.

With the win over Santa Cruz, Monterey now goes to the sectional tournament at Hanford on August 1, 2 and 3.

Monterey's excellent coaching staff consists of Ben Omoto, manager; John Bozich and George Galios, coaches. Dick Phinney's Travel Service is the sponsor.

Omoto has been a Babe Ruth and Connie Mack manager for many years. Bozich is a former Dodger player and is helping tremendously with the team, as is Galios, who may be familiar to Peninsula golf fans.
